

301 and 302 Redirects Explained

301 REDIRECT

Search engines are notified of a permanent address change with the 301 redirect. The value of inbound links will be transferred to the new site over time

302 REDIRECT

Use a 302 redirect when a site must be temporarily redirected. Search engines will anticipate the site address being active again and inbound links will continue to point to the temporarily redirected page.